MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 2, 1893.

He Abandons the Race for the Senatorship.

His Candidacy Might Result in Injury to His Party,

And He, Therefore, Formally Withdraws from the Contest.

Vigorous Letter from Stephen M. White Recent Charges Against Him Answered, and His Position on Various Issues Defined.

By Telegraph to The Times. SAGRAMENTO, Jan. 1 .- | By the Associated Press. | The following letter is nade public tonight:

Hon. H. F. Emeric: Since reaching Sacramento and surveying the field I have become satisfied that my further candidacy for Senator might result in injury to the Democratic party of the country. The fact that our party has not a clear majority in the Legislature complicates the Senatorial election to that extent, in my opinion, that my continuance as a candidate might possibly result in the election to the United States Senate of some one who is not in accord with the political principles to which you and I are devoted, and in the present con dition of the parties in the Senate such esult might prove a national disaster.

I thank you and others of my friends for the cordial and effective support you have given me, and beg leave to withdraw my name from further consideration in connection with the Senatorship. Your friend, W. W. FOOTE.

WHITE'S POSITION.

Vigorous Letter Explaining His View and Refuting Charges San Francisco, Jan. 1 .- [By the As ociated Press. | Hon. Stephen M. White has written an eight-column letter to the Morning Call explaining his position on the Senatorial question and refuting charges that have been made against him. In answer to the charge that he is railroad attorney, Mr. White says: I am not an attorney of the Southern Pa cific Company or any other railroad cor-poration. On the contrary, the only rail-road litigation now pending wherein I am interested are suits in which I represent parties adverse to the corporation. There suits were instituted in 1888. I filed an answer in 1889.

assertion that I am a railroad attorney probably arose from the fact that during a small portion of the period covered by the existence of the firm of Bicknell & White that copartnership transacted some legal business for the Southern Pacific Company. We dissolved more than four years ago, and my partner took that business with him at my request. With the exception of a few suits, which were attended to before the dissolution of the firm. I never have had any transaction either with the Southern Pacific Company or with any of its stockholders or collateral corporations, nor have I any business or other connection with these institutions.

Speaking of the charge that he opposed that part of the resolutions at the Fresno convention favoring the abolion of the railroad comp sion, Mr. White says:

I did so, thinking I was acting for the est interests of the people.

Mr. White argues at length in defense of his action that it is impossible for any legisature in the limited session of sixty days to attend to the regulasion of railroad matters, and, if the people will, they can elect capable railroad commissioners to look after their interests. Mr. White says:

I am willing to record myself as declaring that if it be true that we cannot regu-late these corporations by means of a com-mission, there is but one way to deal with them, and that is we must run them our-. I do not mean that we shall confisserves. I do not mean that we shall confis-cate their property, if we cannot settle-the matter through the present channels, but we must provide for transportation which will not absorb the profits of agri-culture and the results of the effort of toil. Mr. White refers to his record during the campaign, and his career in the State Legislature in railroad questions, and says: As far as national affairs are concerned if I am chosen, I will endeavor to see that the railroad maintains its contract with

Referring to the statement published that if elected United States Senator he would favor the southern part of California to the detriment of other sections, Mr. White says: I believe that an officer chosen by the whole State is in duty bound to be fair and impartial in conferring such favors as he may have to give, and in the discharge of his obligations. My aim will be to attend to the interests of the Commonwealth from San Diego to Dei Norte.

HELENA (Mont.,) Jan: 1 .- There now seems every reason to believe that the Democrats will organize both houses of the Legislature tomorrow. They control the Senate 9 to 7. The Choteau county canvassing board has not yet re-counted the vote of that county, and the Republican contestant has no title to office whatever. So the Democrats will have twenty-seven votes, one less than the required number. It is now almost a foregone conclusion that the Democrats will have a majority over all on joint ballot for United States Senator. Senator.

Cases of the Wyoming Regulator DENVER (Colo.,) Jan. 1 .- A special to the Republican from Chevenne, Wyo., says: "About fifteen defendants in the case against the Johnson county regulators are now here. - The trial is dock eted to open at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. It is understood a motion will be made and probably allowed for a postponement of the cases until the 'May term of the court.' man from Boston.

RESULTS OF A RAID.

Sunday Cock-fighters Injured in Their Efforts to Avoid Arrest. Norwich (Ct.,) Jan. 1.—[By the Asso-ciated Press.] While a cock fight was in progress last night in a third-stor room of the Miantonomah Hotel, a squad of police surrounded the house and demanded admittance to the room. Then ensued a panic and flight on the part of 100 men to escape. Without a moment's hesitation the whole company plunged through a door at the rear room, amid sounds of crashing panes of glass and splintered sashes, and dived headlong three stories to the ground. Some fell on the tops of carriages, and three or four on the backs of frightened horses.

riages, and three or four on the backs of frightened horses.

Most of the men escaped serious injury, and fled down the country roads and across the snowy fields, but some lay helpiess on the ground. Edward Walsh struck a projecting ledge, and his skull was crushed in from above the temple to the lower jaw bone. He died instantly. Another man had an arm broken, and four others are nursing broken legs. The police arrested seven men, including the cripples, but most of them were released on bonds.

TYPHUS FEVER. More Cases in New York—Ravages of the Disease in Mexico.

New York, Jan. 1.—[By the Associated Press.] Twenty-eight cases of typhus fever developed today, a majority coming from a cheap lodging-house at No. 34 Bayard street, from which three cases were reported Saturday. persons afflicted were removed to the Riverside Hospital and quarantine was established at all places where cases were discovered. cases reported to the health authorities

The typhus within the past three days now number forty. Every precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

EAGLE PASS (Tex.,) Jan 1.—William Divine, who arrived today from the in-terior of Mexico, reports that accounts of the ravages of typhus fever are not exaggerated. The mortality is esti-mated at 15 to 25 per cent. of those stricken. The wealthy classes do not appear to have any immunity from the disease, suffering equally with the poor.

FEARFUL MORTALITY.

The Mysterious Disease which Prevails in an Arkansas Prison Dallas (Tex.,) Jan. 1 .- [By the Asso

In reference to the reported existence of cholera among the convicts in the penitentiary in that city he says the disease has symptoms of cholera, but is more wiftly fatal then Asiatic cholera. It first appeared among a detachment of convicts at work e caning out a sewer on the Iron Mountain road. The un-covering of the sewer liberated gas, which, it seems, generated the disease Eight convicts at work in the sewer died. Five died half an hour after they were stricken down. From the sewer the disease was conveyed to the penitentiary. The disease has created something like a panic in Little Rock.

The Great Ferryboat Tiburon Destroyed

by Fire-Islands in the Sacramento River Have a Narrow Escape from Inundation By Telegraph to The Times.

San Francisco, Jan. 1 .- | By the Associated Press. | The old year was closed last night by a unique and terrible tragedy, by which Sidney McCoy, a young lawyer, aged 32 years, lost his life, and Miss Grace King, aged 19, is in a precarious condition.

A party of friends, numbering about fifty, assembled last night at McCoy's use on Guerrero street to watch the old year out and the new year in. A feature of the evening's entertainment was the production of a short play written by McCoy, and performed by amateurs. The plot of the play was the betraval of a band of Russian Nihilists by one of their number. Th Nihilists discover the traitor, and condemn her to death. They decide by lot who shall perform the execution, and the number falls to the character portrayed by McCoy. Miss King played the part of the traitor. She is given, in the play, her choice of being killed or stabbing herself, and chooses the latter alternative. McCoy handed her a stout dagger, which had been in his family for many years. In the play the girl instead of killing herself was to stab her executioner, and as she received the knife Miss Kimg leaned forward to touch McCoy on the breast with the knife. At the same instant McCoy started toward the girl, when she stumbled, and falling forward with the dagger in her hand, drove it through McCoy's heart.

McCoy showed wonderful vitality and presence of mine. He walked into the next room and asked for a doctor, and then fell dead.

The girl knew that there had been an accident of some kind, but did not know that McCoy was killed. She was taken home, and afterward, on the ad-vice of friends, gave herself up to the police. She was taken to the city orison at 6 o'clock in the morning, and when she entered the prison she fainted, and has since remained unconscious. This morning McCoy's two brothers secured her release by giving $10,000 bonds for her appearance.

The girl was them taken home and is in critical condition.
The accident is explained by the fac that recently Miss King suffered from a sprained ankle. She had been using crutches to walk with, but had laid them aside to participate in the play. As she made the motion to stab McCov she rested her weight on the weak foot It gave way and she fell forward.

A BIG VESSEL BURNED. The Huge Ferryboat Tiburon Totally Destroyed by Fire SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 .- By the Associated Press.] The ferryboat Tiburon, one of the largest on San Francisco Bay, was totally destroyed by fire this afternoon. The loss is $140,000: insurance $50,000. The Tiburon connected with trains of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad at Tiburon on the Marin county shore, and had arrived from Tiburon at 12:40 p.m. with a large number of passengers. o'clock fire was discovered. flames spread so rapidly that nothing could be done to save the boat, as she lay tied to the wharf. It is supposed the fire started in the boat's kitchen, as there was a hot fire in the range.

The boat would have left at 1:30 o'clock for Tiburon with another large load of passengers, and had the fire broken out a few minutes sooner or later than it did a frightful catastrophe would have been the result. LATER.—The damage to the ferry-boat is now estimated at $20,000.

An Unfaithful Wife Suicides in the Room of Her Paramour SEATTLE (Wash.,) Jan. 1.-[By the Associated Press | Mrs. Nellie Brundage, wife of C. N. Brundage, a prominant real estate man, committed suicide in the room of her paramour, Attorney S. R. Clute. at the Grandview Hotel early this morning. Clute, on realizing what the woman had done, made an unsuccessful attempt to end his life by the same means. The climax was the result of intoxication and an article in a Sunday paper telling of her actions on Christmas night, but mentioning no names. The husband is heart-broken at the disgrace-ful affair. Clute is an attorney from Montezuma, lowa, and the Brundages came from Canandaigua, N. Y.

BERLIN, Jan. 1 .- [By Cable and Associated Press.] The attempts of several newspapers to smother in ridicule the Guelph fund scandal has not succeeded. The details given in the Vorwaerts article concerning the distribution of money are too minute to he die missed as mere fabrications. Although withholding for obvious reasons the names of the recipients of bribes, Vorwaerts indicates their occupations and politics with exactness. men who were beneficiaries of the fund it says, are officials of the empire; eight are generals, three judges, eleven journalists, and twenty-five members of the Reichstag. The deputies in question are mostly National Liberals and Conservatives, and received sums varying between $1500 and $2700 each. The three principal beneficiaries of the fund are believed to have been ntimate friends of King Ludwig of Bavaria. The heaviest bribing, says Vorwaerts, was done in 1886. The information supplied to Vorwaerts is believed to have been gained from Social-Democrats by August Bebel. Should Bebel be as dis-ingenious as he usually is, the investigation will be exceeding profitless. The whole matter will probably lie over until the Reichstag reassembles, when the Social Democrats will bring it up by means of a resolution or interpellation.

RAILWAY EARNINGS.

Interesting Report Made to the Interstate Commerce Commission WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 .- [By the Associated Press. The preliminary report on the income and expenditure of railways for the year ended June 30, 1892, compiled by the statistician of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be made public soon. The gross earnings of 128,849.99 miles of railway are shown to have been $951,025,159, from which the gross earnings of the entire railway system were estimated to have been $1,222,711,698; an increase of $125,950,308 over the earnngs of the previous year. The operat-expenses for the year were $814,-22,082, an increase of $82,834,789, assenger service was $81,500.038. or $247 per mile, as against an increase in revenue from the freight service of $91,506,671, or $849 per mile. The railways which show the largest increase in gross earnings per mile are lines connecting the wheat-growing territory with the seaboard and in the Southern States bordering on the Gulf of Mexico. It is significant, however, to review that on these while are their these seasons are their territories.

to notice that on these railways their increase in operating expenses is nearly equal to the increase in gross receipts

The report shows the aggregate gross earnings of sixty-two roads to be $794,478,831, being an average income of $12,814,171, and an average gross revenue per mile for all roads of $8840.

A classification of the sixty-two roads in question shows that eight received each an income in excess of $20,000 per mile between $7443 and $3000, while the income for each of the remainder is less than $7443 per mile.

It appears that in some parts of the country there was a healthy expansion of trade during the last two years, while in other parts the increase in traffic in 1892 does little more than balance the loss in traffic in 1891.

to think they could write. Bierce has such an overweening estimate of his own brains that he can't see how the rest of the people can possibly have any. This man would make a good archangel of hell—he has enough intelligence to fill the position, but his supply off unadulterated gall is so large that he would probably "fire" the devil and occupy the throne himself. Ambrose has been dictating, with much satisfaction to himself, to the people of California for some time. In his own way he has been telling the people just how large a fool one man is and how much more so another is. He has en-Tally-ho stables. The young man formerly worked for Jevne, the grocer, but has not been more so another is. He has en-deavored to "burn up" every writer of any prominence that has crossed his path. If there is any justice in the next world, however, His Satanic Majesty will attend to the "burning up" of Bierce. The newspaper writers of with that firm for about six months, but he evidently forgot this fact Saturday morning, when he called at the stable and order a rig on the strength of be-

He was allowed to take the horse and buggy out, but he acted so strange that the stable people decided to investi-gate. In a few minutes they learned that he was not working, so the matter was reported to the police, and the noon watch was instructed to look out for him and run him in if he acted sus-

I have no reputation, therefore Ambrose will not know what to say, as his fiendish desire is to endeavor to "tear down" the reputation that men have worked the greater part of their lives to make. Tender hearted Ambrose slings his maglignant vocabulary roundabout and asks the sufferiag public to devour his bitter words and say they like them, whether they will or no. He is somewhat similar to the restaurant waiter who asked a guest The Alleged Murderer of Miller Again in Custody.

Now En Route to This City to Answer for the Crime.

Interest in the Old Carleton Saloon Trag edy Revived-Sensational Evidence Said to Be in Possession of

For some weeks past it has been an open secret in official circles that the grand jury some weeks ago returned a true bill against George Miles for the murder of George W. Miller, the proprietor of the Carlton saloon, in this city, in May, 1891. Miles was arrested for the crime at the time, but was discharged, on his preliminary examination before Justice Owens, the evidence presented at the time not being con sidered strong enough by the examin-The ontcome of the examination was somewhat in the nature of a surprise, and caused considerable discussion at the time. M., to the effect that he had arrested Miles, and was on his way to this city with his prisoner. Just what new evidence has been sesay they have a strong case. Chief Glass has always been of the opinion that Miles was the right man, and as the Miller murder was about the only serious crime committed during his term of office in which the guilty parties were not brought to justice, he put forth his best efforts, and ever since the dismissal of the case, has worked hard to fill in the missing links which Justice Owens, from the bench, decided were vital to the prosecution.

Soon after Detective Lawson had completed his investigation of the Ivett murder case in Merced county, he was employed to solve the mysterious mur-der of George Miller. Chief Glass and Lawson have worked together on the case, and the latter states that owing to the skilled manner in which the Chief had welded together the links, he had little difficulty in running down e very strong and positive additional evidence.

District Attorney McLachlan took up the case some weeks ago, and pre-sented the evidence unearthed by Chief Glass and Detective Lawson to the grand jury. An indictment was found against George Miles. Deputy Marshal Marsh was appointed State agent by Gov. Markham, and, with the requisi tion on the Governor of New Mexico Marsh started for Santa Fé'on Tuesday last.

It is claimed by Lawson that some startling evidence will be brought out at the trial of Miles.

The prisoner, in charge of Deputy Marshal Marsh, will arrive here Tuesday.

Mrs. Miller, the wife of the murdered man, is still living in this city, and ever since her husband's death has been exerting every effort to have his murderer or murderers brought to justice.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

the Most Mysterious Murders i the History of the State.

The story of the mysterious murder of George W. Miller, which occurred on the night of May 16, 1891, is still fresh in the minds of many as one of the most sensational and unfathomable crime furnished by the annals of the city.

Miler was a partner with George Miles in the ownership of the Carleton saloon at the time, having no capital invested, but only a working interest, and in a cardroom of that place

"It is true that the Examiner is fighting me. Its opposition has never been very effective. The only Police Judge clasted by the Democrats in San France. where the murder was committed. I will be remembered that John Wooley who had charge of the Carleton billiard rooms, called at the police station at 12 o'clock on the night mentioned and stated to the officers that he had just discovered the body of the murdered man in the cardroom at the rear of the saloon. The police immediately hur-ried to the place, where Miller was found lying on his right side on a lounge, his arms folded and his legs drawn up nearly to the chin. There was a pool of blood on the carpet-which had oozed from an ugly wound in the head, which appeared to have been made with some blunt instrument Nothing about the premises could be found which would furnish a clew upon which to base reasonable suspicion of outside parties.

According to Miles's statement, Miller had been drunk all day and had exhibited freely a check for $500 and a considerable amount of gold coin. Miles had induced him to turn over the money to him for keeping and had placed it in the safe. Miller had then, about 7 p.m., gone to the lounge in the candrooms and laid down, locking the door, which closed with a spring catch. A few minutes before 12 o'clock Miles said he sent Wooley back to awaken Miller, and then it was that the discovery was made. There were other cardrooms adjoining and people were passing to and from them all the Young Wooley was the last person to see Miller alive, and told the same story as related by Miles. As Miller had been drinking heavily during the day in many Alameda street saloons, the officers at first formed the opinion that he had flashed up his money before the habitues of these resorts, some of whom had followed him and committed the murder to secure the

The theory was, however, abandoned on the discovery of a heavy machinist's hammer of peculiar shape in a compartment behind the bar. There were spots of what looked like blood on the hammer, and the end of the hammer exactly fitted in the hole in Miller's head. On this discovery, Miles was arrested but on his examination the prosecution failed to establish the fact that the stains were human blood, and there were some legal technicalities which prevented the identification of the hammer. At any rate, Miles was discharged, and soon left the city, when public interest in the tragedy died out, and the murder was added to the list of unsolved mysteries.

UP IN SACRAMENTO. Senatorial Candidates Getting Ready for the Fight.

[San Francisco Post, Dec. 30.]

Stephen M. White has engaged rooms at the Golden Eagle Hotel, and will open headquarters there this week.

Mr. Foote will conduct his campaign in the same botel, and will entertain, it is the same hotel, and will entertain, it is said, in a generous way.

As the date of the opening of the ses sion of the Legislature draws near the Foote leaders seem imbued with greater confidence, and the sanguine way in which they declare they will win leads to the conviction that they have a strong hand in reserve.

It has been learned that they expect to secure the San Francisco delegation. From conversations with many of the Senators and Assemblymen from this place it has been learned that the delegation is divided, and the prospects are that it will be impossible to induce them to join in united action.

While the Foote people claim to have arranged for the support of a majority at least of the San Francisco representatives, it is claimed in the White camp that Sullivan and Durar have conthat Sullivan and Dwyer have con-cluded to throw their strength to the Los Angeles man.

It is hard to approximate the exact strength the reorganization leaders can muster in this city, but it is thought that they have not over three votes under their complete control. While such a force seems small, it is eagerly sought by both sides on account of the influence over the country delegation that Sullivan, Dwyer and their followers may have.

Judge Sullivan seems to have retired Judge Sullivan seems to have retired from the Senatorial fight, for he is not, so far as can be ascertained, making any personal efforts to pledge legisla-tors to his support, nor has he a corps of workers engaged in his behalf. STEPHEN M. WHITE INTERVIEWED.

Confident of Election-He Scorches the "Examiner." [Sacramento Record-Union, Dec. 31.]

Hon. Stephen M. White and party, consisting of his private secretary, R. W. Gates of Los Angeles, Charles Prager of the same city, and R. P. Doolan of San Francisco, arrived last night on the 10:40 train, and were impediately driven to the Colder Factor mediately driven to the Golden Eagle Hotel, where Mr. White's headquarters are situated. He appeared in excellent spirits, is sanguine that the Democrats will elect a United States Senator and that high compliment will be paid to him. To a Record-Union reporter Mr. White said:

"I am very hopeful of the result, as far as my Senatorial aspirations are concerned. I have the support of nearly all the interior Democratic news-elected by the Democrats in San Fran-cisco at the late election was opposed by that paper, and although it attempted to defeat a Democratic supervisor, Mr Ryan, he was nevertheless triumphan at the polls. But the principle reason I have for discrediting the Examiner's influence is the notorious character of the paper. The public understand that it is wholly unreliable; its character for truth and decercy is the worst possible.

"After vainly endeavoring to prove that I am a railroad candidate, it has sought to raise the sectional cry against me, but this accusation falls flat, beme, but this accusation falls flat, be-cause every one knows that I am a na-tive of San Francisco; have always heen interested in that portion of the State, and if I am elected to the Senate it will be my ambition to do the most effective service for the bay counties, the Sacramento Valley, and I may say for the State generally.

"I have no doubt of the election of a Democrat. No other result would be logical, or indeed possible. I may say that although the Examiner has tacked me with great virulence, and, al-though many of the members-elect have been personally interviewed by the Re publicans who are running it, neverthe-ess not a single vote has been affected injuriously to me by these attacks and solicitations. I am proud to say that my friends are too firm to be in-fluenced by such an assailant."

A SHOOTING SCRAPE

A Jealous Husband Opens Fire on the Supposed Lover. At 1:30 o'clock this morning John Ortle, the watchman of the Philadelphia Brewery, and a man named Henry Lenard were taken to the central station, and Lenard was locked up.

Ortle stated that he lives near the brewery, and when he went home at 1 o'clock he saw a man coming out of his front door. He ordered the man to stop, but he started to run, and Ortle fired four shots at him, and several officers rushed up and placed both me nder arrest.
Two of Ortle's bullets took effect.

One struck Lenard's left thumb, but only inflicted a flesh wound, and the other entered his right side, inflicting a flesh wound. Ortle did not have time to wound. Ortle did not have time to find out what Lenard was doing in the house, as his wife had gone to bed and he did not see her.

The officers are of the opinion that Lenard was after Ortle's wife, and when the husband returned home he found Lenard coming out of the house, and began to shoot.

MAKING A WINTER CAMP.

By Lieut, F. P. Fremont,

Contributed to The Times. The first thing on reaching a good hunting region is to pick out a spot for camp, one that will be sheltered from the force of the winds. Select a dell, a thicket of small trees or large bushes (large trees have not enough lower oranches to make a good windbreak) or secure position at the foot of a cliff;

If you have a tent, so much the better, but if you have not, a projected trip may not be given up on that account.

BEST WAYS TO SET UP TENTS.

as a rule, water will be found near any

With an oblong or square tent, first put in the ridge pole, then pass the pins of the poles through the holes in the ridge pole, taking care that they also pass through the holes in the canvas of the tent at the top ends. If there are only two in the party to work mark only two in the party to work, mark out the size of the bottom of the tent on the ground and drive a tent pin in at each corner; then dig two holes three inches deep, one at the point where the front pole will be and the other where the rear one will rest; hook the lower corners of one side of the tent over tw of the pins already driven, then lay the tent on its side so that the ends of the poles will be on the edges of the holes that have been made on the front and back lines; now station yourselves on the side opposite that on which you have the two tent corners pinned, and, taking hold of the tent guys on the upper side, pull it up into position, pin the bottom and guys, taking care that the tent door is tied so that the sides will not be pinned so far apart that the door cannot meet door cannot meet.

Most tent poles are too long, and the post holes I have advised permit them to sink down sufficiently to let the sides of the tent rest on the ground.

With a round tent, mark a circle the same size as the bottom of the tent, pin the bottom to the ground all around on the line of this circle. Then raise the tent from the inside and fix the guys. If you have no tent a very good sub-stitute can be made from a wagon-cover. Cut a ridge pole and support it on two shorter poles at each end, lashed together in the form of a "V," and over this structure draw the wagon cover; and if you will also place thin sticks at right angles across the ridge-pole like wagon bows, you will have a very good tent, indeed.

COSIEST CAMP OF ALL Failing any canvas, a very comfort-able shelter can be made out of hemlock or pine branches. The best way, alor pine branches. The best way, air though there are many, is to select a small tree, cut off the lower branches as far up as you can reach from the ground, take some poles, as many as you please, but all twice as long as the distance from the ground to the last branch you cut off (which should be cut off about a foot from the trunk and off about a foot from the trunk), and rest the top ends against the stump of this branch so that they will project five or six inches; place the lower ends on the ground so that they will form a circle around the tree, the trunk being he center. Now, commencing at the bottom, place good sized pine and hemlock branches on the ground against the orances on the ground against the poles, with the stem of the branch up. Of course you have placed the poles close enough together to prevent the branches from falling through. Keep on thatching with the branches, using smalleriones as you near the top, this shelter is made with a little or being sure to place the growing e of the branches down, you will find it a warm, dry and very snug shelter, such as you will surely enjoy better than any canvas tent, provided you are a born woodsman born woodsman.

HOW TO MAKE A SOFT BED. You should never sleep on the ground if you can help it. A most comfortable ed can be made with pine or hemlock boughs, using small boughs for the lower layers and the soft ends for the top. Be careful in this to commence at the of your bed, place the stems of the boughs pointing away from the head, and be sure that every stem is covered by the soft end of the next bough; the thicker this mattress, is made the more delightful it is, and a very little bed ding makes you warm enough.

In winter a stove is necessary, and one that you can cook upon is to be preferred.

I must qualify what I just said about a stove being a necessity, for I have slept out in a brush shelter a week at time in the mountains of Montana when the snow was deep and the cold intense. But then we did not entirely enclose our hemlock "wickey-up," as the Indians call it, but left it partly open to admit the warmth of a great fire in front of it that was built up every time anvone woke up.

A SNOW BEDROOM.

I remember once being out in the mountains when it was so cold that animals froze to death standing. That night we slept without a tent or even a brush shelter. The snow was deep, and we took advantage of it and got our shelter from it. We built a great fire alongside a fallen tree, and it soon melted the snow under it and around it, hollowing out a sort of room, in which, after the fire went down, we made our after the fire went down, we made our beds on some pine boughs. With a lit-tle fire at our feet, we slept in comfort in our snow berth, never supposing for an instant that the thermometer was etween sixty and seventy degrees low zero.

Unhappy Moment. [Hartford Courant.] A gentle and affectionate clubman, who came home at rather an unearthly hour the other night, was asked by his wife what time it was.

"Half-past 11, my dear."

Just then the timeplece rung out 8 "What's that?" said the justly indignant wife. 'Coming in at this un-earthly hour and then telling a lie about it!"

The clubman sighed and at once trembled with unshed tears.

"To think," he cried with upraised hands, "you'd believe that little $8 French clock before you would the word of your own faithful husband!"

The husband had gone out boating, and the wind a great noise made,
And the anxious wife for his safety dropped down on her knees and prayed,
And she put up a wild petition that the danger he might pass through.
If anything happened to him, she sobbed, it would certainly kill her, too.
But when he returned at evening of his narrow escape to tell marrow escape to tell With a frown on her face she met him, and she scolded him right well.

—[New York Press. Attempted Suicide.

There was a report on the streets last night to the effect that the son of a well-known merchant had attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself.
The young man could not be found, and his parents denied that there was any truth in the report.

JAY GOULD'S DEFENSE OF HIMSELF.

An English Report of the "Little Wiz-zard's" Thinking Aloud. [London Spectator.] A contributor to the St. James's Gazette reported on Monday the essence of some conversations which he held with the late Mr. Jay Gould on the deck of an Atlantic liner. Circumstances mentioned threw the two men into a position of momentary sympathy, and the millionaire raplied to questions, perhaps a little over-searching, with a want of reticence greatly at variance with his usual habit.

with his usual habit.

"I am absolutely the most detested man living, and I am not surprised," said Mr. Gould. "There isn't a man or woman living who would do me a good turn to save his own life; and why, therefore, should I do any man or woman a good turn? I was born and woman a good turn? I was born and bred so low down that I have always heen on the rise at every point in my career; and, accordingly, every man's hand that I have come in contact with

has been against me."

Again, to give the full force of what he said, we must extract verbatim: "I cannot remember ever having had a good turn done to me. I am not sur-prised, for I have had to shove down prised, for I have had to shove down every man I have ever met; but, equally, why should I help those who have been opposed to me! I have made my own fortune, and, in doing so, I have had to ruin thousands. To be have had to ruin thousands. To sorry for one fact I should have to sorry for the other. I can't say I am, for the simple reason that any man whom I beat is a bigger fool than I am, and I hate fools; and, of course, fools hate me. It is lucky for me and lucky for them they are in the majority. But why should I like men who hate me? I don't like being hated naturally; but I can't help it. If I were liked I should know I was a fool, and that thought would beak me right up. I was born would break me right up. I was born to make money, and to be execrated accordingly. I can't help being hated any more than I can help making money. Everybody has had the same chances that I have had. Exactly the same crises have been jivetimes. Everybody's eyes have been riveted on the same projects. They have thought one thing would happen, and they have acted on their opinion. have thought the other thing would happen, and I have acted on my opinion. Should have been mad to act agains my convictions; and madder still to the should have been mad to act against my convictions, and madder still to try and make the world act against theirs. "You can't do people good turns—they won't let you. I should not listen to them, they would not listen to me. Surely we are quits, and there should be no ill-feeling. But there is, and at they hate me for succeeding I hate them for failing. At any rate one is a rational as the other. If I lost, I dare say I should be unceasonable enough to say I should be unreasonable enough hate them, and they would according hate me sooner or later. They mightry and help me, but I would not take their advice, and accordingly the would drop me as a fool, and we woul all be standing in the same hatin ratio one to another. Men I ha never seen nor even heard of have gone about with murder in thei hearts, and if they could have founme would have been fools enoug to kill me—just as if that would hav benefited them! It surely is as natura for me-to hate them as for them to hat for me to hate them as for them to ha me. I have gone about for years with men paid to protect me. If I did not hate every man as cordially as every man hates me I should be unhappy, and yet I suppose I am the most miserable devil in the whole world. What a paradise it all is!" adise it all is!"

We hardly remember a narrative more truly tragic, or one that more vividly described the feelings of what used to be called in a language now disused, a "possessed" man. Mr. Gould, used, a "possessed" man. Mr. Gould if the St. James's narrative is true, was possessed with the demon of money making-not avarice, but the money making—not avarice, but the money-making form of ambition—who could not go out of the arena, could help using his marvelous weapon of slaughter, yet had all the while to steel himself against relics of instinctive pity by asserting over and over again, "These are all my enemies."

Poets and Critics. Poets and Critics.
This thing, that thing is the rage,
Helter-skelter runs the age;
Minds on this round earth of ours
Vary like the leaves and flowers,
Fashion'd after certain laws;
Sing thou low or loud or sweet,
All at all points thou canst not meet,
Some will pass and some will pause What is true at last will tell: Few at first will place thee well; Some too low would have thee shine, Some too high—no fault of thine—

Year will graze the heel of year ut seldom comes the poet here. And the critic's rarer still.

Common Sense About Manufactures,

It is a matter of congratulation to most people in Los Angeles that Mayor

Hazard did not take a narrow and prejudiced view of the Cudahy packing-house ordinance, but signed it promptly and bade the enterprise God-speed. The nuisance which some people feared from the location of an establishment of this kind within the city limits we believe to be founded on lack of proper quainted with the localities in which are situated the great packing-houses of Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha, say that there is no more offense from them in the way of smell than would come from a large manufactory of any other kind. Where slaughtering and curing is carried on so extensively the most scrupulous cleanliness is required as a matter of business, if for no other reason. None of the offal is allowed to remain for over a few hours to contaminate the atmosphere, but it is all pitched into an immense vat, where it is desiccated into fer-almost continually. All of the pro cesses are carried on within doors, and with the expedition and regularity of a great machine. Almost before the flesh of a deceased hog has done quivering, the thoroughly cleaned carcass is hanging in cold storage, and his inner inconsciousness is stewing down into food for the vegetable family.

Of course the neighborhoods surrounding these establishments can hardly be classed among the aristocratic suburbs. People of wealth do not seek them out as places of residence. But the large class of people who find employment in these estab

In our American system of develop ment, such conditions come to every manufacturing center, and they must be accepted in promotion of the general good. A city cannot be thoroughly esthetic and thoroughly practical in every locality. So, we have taken a common-sense view in making room for the Cudahy packing-house, and we can only hope that others of its kind will come along to stimulate industry, give employment to an army of operatives, put money in circulation, and promote the growth and prosperity of our city

Talking of Los Angeles as a mapufacturing center, the most obtuse cannot fail to see that the era of active development in this line has set in with vigor and promise. It has generally been the fashion to say that Los Angeles, in this far off corner of the country, without a great supply of raw material and with high-priced fuel, could never do much in the way of manufacturing.

This is simply nonsense. The same thing used to be said during the earlier careers of Kansas City, Chicago and thing, the development of an American city comes in distinct and well-established epochs; first, as an agricultural settlement or trading post; then as a local business town; then a place of supply for the surrounding country and a market for its products; then a railroad center or a port for water traffic, or both, and finally a great city and a place for manufactures: The manufac turing features generally trail along at the end of the procession. The development of the country generally brings the requisite raw materials; the rail-roads and vessels supply the facilities for distribution, and the commercial ad-ready established - are the chief attraction. Depend upon it that many of the shortcomings of Los angeles as a manufacturing place have already been overcome, and others will soon be entirely obviated. A single

AT THE OPERAHOUSE-The Old Home-

A Name That is One-sided.

A San Francisco paper of philosophic leanings calls attention to the fact that in speaking of the Pacific Ocean we are very likely to overlook the fact that the word which, by grammatical usage, we write with a capital, is really only an adjective, and that the ocean which stretches between America and Asia and Africa was originally called "pacific" because of the contrast it presented to the early navigators to the storm-beaten Atlantic. Our contempo-

During the centuries that have elapsed between the days when the earliest argonauts ventured around Cape Horn and the present day the re-spective characters of the two oceans stiff breeze on this side of the continent they have a gale on the other, and when a gale ruffles the surface of the Pacific the Atlantic is lashed into a fury

But our contemporary itself overlooks the fact that this is a purely American, and a one-sided view of the situation We call this ocean Pacific because we happen to be on the pacific side of it.

The Atlantic coast of North America is stormy for the reason that it lies in the track of two great permanent storm systems. One family of storms sweep across the continent from west to east generally striking the Pacific Coast at British Columbia or Washington and making its exit by way of Nova Scotia and New Foundland, thence crossing the North Atlantic. It is not generally known that a storm wave or cycenter makes a journey over this transcontinental route on an average of once in six days. Some of these storm movements are mild and give us only pleasant changes of weather, some are more or less violent. As a general proposition the conditions which tend to violence are less pronounced on this side of the continent than the other, and a cyclonic movement which may be "as mild as any sucking dove" when it debouches upon our northern coast, may develop into a veritable terror midway of the continent or on the other side.

The second family of storms which sweep the Atlantic Coast are known as tropical cyclones. These generally prevail from August to February or March. They originate just north of the equatorial calm belt, sweep around to the northwest and, at latitude 20° or 30° north, turn in a parabolic curve to the northeast, and thence pass out upon the Atlantic. These are the storms that the Gulf of Mexico and produce the violent disturbances, the tornadoes and hurricanes on lishments gather about them with their coast of Florida and all of little homes; property is in gaeat re-Southern Coast States. Thus quest and actually enhances in value the Atlantic Coast is stormy, as stated, Those who find no objections to their because it is situated so as to receive environments live there, and those who two fires from the elements of discord- do not like it can sell out at a good one bombardment from the rear, so to profit and locate somewhere else speak, and one enfliading fire, which rakes it fore and aft.

Quite similar conditions exist on the Pacific but the scene of active hostilities does not lie along our coast, but on the coast of China and Japan. While Asia is crossed by the same family of storms which sweep across our continent in circumnavigating the globe, there is another set of tropical storms originating in the South Pacific that swing around in a parabolic curve and rake the shores of Japan and China. When these storms develop great violence like the tornadoes and hurricanes of North America, they are called ty-

It is thus apparent that in the adjustment of meteorological conditions on our globe, it was foreordained that the eastern shores of continents and the western sides of oceans should subject to much more violent weather than their opposites. The eastern sides of oceans and the western shores -of continents are pacific all the way round. We have only to compare the rugged and tempestuous climate of our Atlantic seaboard with the mild and genial weather of Western Europe to note this differ ence. New York city is subject to much greater cold than London, notwithstanding the fact that our American metropolis is about twelve degrees fur-ther south. The same holds with reference to the eastern and western shores of the Pacific. This ocean is "pacific" only when we look at it from the pacific side. And the same conequator are found south, of it. Nobody has forgotten that terrible torare found south, of it. which swept Samoa a few years ago and played hovoc with the warships of England, Germany and America doned there.

We call attention to these general to in order that articles like that lished by our San Francisco contemrary may not lead people into a narand provincial view of climatic conwhich exist with system and erful regularity all over the globe. is true that a one-sided view of things to name to this great western but we are not obliged to per te these half-falsehoods in nating the name.

natural gas, piping the petroleum sup-ply of our neighboring oil fields into the city, or building the Salt Lake soad into Southern Nevada and Utah-would solve the fuel problem. Not only are we destined to work up into merchandise the natural products of the country now apparent, but the refractory ores of the interior will be brought here for smelting, and a thousand industries will come which are as yet only dreamed of. Los Angeles is destined to be a great deal more than a pleasant city of the third or fourth class, and a pleasant resort for tourists. bound to become a great manufacturing place, a great commercial city, the metropolis and entrepot of the southwestern corner of the United States.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES

ATTRACTION TONIGHT. - Denman Thompson's beautiful pastoral play, The Oli Home stead, will be given its initial presentation at the Grand this evening—the first of five performances. The play is not new to Los Angeles audiences, but as it is a creation full of charming and touching things it will no doubt serve to draw crowded house during the entire engagement. The com pany is said to be one of the best ever see in the play. Denman Thompson's old rôle is assumed by Archie Boyd, who, by com petent critics, has been pronounced fully equal to the great actor who created it. The support is first-class, and the great double quartette nightly receives recall after recall wherever the piece has been played. The advance sales are said to be very large.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Pertinent Harbor Questions. Los ANGELES, Dec. 28, 1892.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I see in a weekly paper published in the city an advertise ment calling for a valuable privilege and the right to construct a wharf in the inner harbor of San Pedro.

I believe that our worthy Board of Supervisors take action on these cases.

Question: Is it good policy to choke up and crowd the right-of-way to the harbor in this manner?

Would it not impede the dredging of the harbor?
What are the people of Southern California to get out of it?
Is it not customary to pay heavily for such privileges at other places similarly situated?

such privileges at other places similarly situated:

May not other people lay claim to so valuable a franchise?

Then is it not high time to stop giving away the people's rights:

We are all united as one and trying hard to press our claims against the Government for a good appropriation to make San Pedro Harbor what it should be.

And I for one believe that those that have our matters under control should look well to our interests and not delegate them to private individuals to become rich on the privileges at the hands of the people's servants.

LIVELY FIGHT.

Loud Talking and Curses Gave Way to

Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a lively fight took place in a brick lodging-bouse at No. 137, San Pedro streef, between a lodger and a friend of the landlady. The lodger had been out wishing his friends a happy New Year, etc., and when he returned home the landlady thought he was not in a proper condition to enter her house.

A quarrel was soon in progress, and it waxed so warm that the rlandlady's friend decided to take a hand, and quicker than a flash loud words and tilizers. The slaughtering floors are sluiced off with water flowing curses gave way to blows.

The two men fought until they reached the front part of the building, when they came in contact with a plate glass window. The next thing they knew they fell through the window and landed on the sidewalk in a sad plight. The broken glass cut both men on numerous parts of the body, and when the landlady saw them lying on the sidewalk with blood spurting in all directions she became frightened, and sent her son to the central police station for an officer. In a few minutes a couple of able guardians of the peace were on the spot, but they were too late to make an arrest, as nothing but the blood on the sidewalk was left. The men had picked concealed themselves in the house. The landlady was evidently over her scare, for she not only refused to say mything, but she would not allow the blue coats to enter the house.

The New Mileage Constructed During the Last Year.

The State of Washington Leads in New Mileage-Speculating on the Future of the Donohue Road-Scrap Heap.

Extra Census Bulletin No. 24, which is just at hand, is devoted to statistics of railway mileage of the world in 1890. Though the information is not new, being anticipated by the computations which have been made periodically by the railway journals and published in the newspapers, the bulletin has a value as an official document. In this bulletin will be found an exhibit of certain facts pertaining to the status of certain facts pertaining to the status of railway mileage in the various countries of the world for the census year 1890, and to the development of railway mileage in the United States since 1830. These facts are presented in the form of tables and of diagrams corresponding to the tables. For greater explicitness the railway mileage of the United States has been classified on a basis of ten territorial groups. ified on a basis of ten territorial groups into which the country has been divided. The boundaries of these groups, which are delineated on the accompanying are delineated on the accompanying map, πay be accepted as official so far as the statistics of railway transportation are concerned, since they have een adopted by the Interstate Com-merce Commission, as well as by the contains the great trunk lines running east from Chicago. This impression is strengthened by turning to the diagram which shows the railway mileage per which it appears that groups II and III are far in excess of any of the other groups in the United States.

Groups IV, V and IX embrace what are usually called the Southern and Gulf States, and it is interesting to notice that since 1830 there have been two decades of peculiar activity in rail way building. The first of these is the way building. The first of these is the decade from 1850 to 1860, and the second the decade from 1880 to 1890.

The twenty years intervening between 1860 and 1880 do not show much activity in railway building. This is cer-tainly interesting, since it indicates that the war arrested a period of development in internal improvements and that that development has been again taken up during the last ten

Groups VI, VII, and VIII cover a territory which seems to be tributary to the cities of Chicago and St. Louis, and the figures pertaining to railway build-ing indicate a remarkable development during the last thirty years, a development during the last thirty years, a development which has been increasing in intensity with each succeeding decade. Railway building in group VI, which embraces the territory immediately adjacent to Chicare in the control of the control embraces the territory immediately ad-jacent to Chicago, is without a parallel. Thus, in 1870, the railway mileage in this group amounted to 9705.42 miles; in 1890 in amounted to 87,468.44 miles. A glance at the diagrams also shows that, notwithstanding the fact that this territory is for the most part devoted to agriculture, the number miles of line per 100 square miles of territory and the number of miles of line per 10,000 inhabitants compare favorably with other groups.

THE DONOHUE BOAD.

On Thursday of this week, January 5 the executors of the estate of Col. J. Mervyn Donohue are to open the bids which they have invited from such persons as might feel inclined to purchase the stock which the deceased Railroad Company-in other words, the majority interest. As has been pre-viously stated, Col. Donohue at the time of his death held 42,000 out of a total of 60,000 shares. It is this in teres; which is now to be sold in the settlement of the estate, but as ha been before explained, the 42,000 shares in question, much as they exceed in number the remaining 18,000, will not give their owners the absolute con trol of the road until the $4,000,000 tled. Until that has been done the lenders of the money, who are also the owners of the minority proportion of the stock, the 18,000 shares mentioned have practically an equal voice in the control of the road by virtue of a special agreement made with them by Col. Donohue. In view of this circumstance there has not been any great temptation for any-body to hid against the Seligman for body to bid against the Seligmans for the stock belonging to the estate, and it has been the general idea that the latter would therefore be able to buy in By the tables presented it is interesting to notice that between 1830 and 1845 it was the accepted policy of practically on their own terms. seems, however, that there is to be another Richmond in the field after all, many of the States to build and manage both railways and canals, and it was not until State governments, on account of the many financial disasters which they sustained, had receded from this judging by a statement made to an Evis in a position to speak with a good deal of authority. His statement is to the effect that a syndicate has been formed, or at all events is in process of field of activity that the work was banded over to corporations. It was about this time that corporations began about this time that corporations began that wonderful development which has caused them to become a most important factor in American life.

Certain interesting faces present themselves if we observe the periods during which railway building has been most intense in the various groups. In group I, that is to say, the New England States, railway building had as early as organization, with the purpose of ding for the road in opposition to the Seligmans, in spite of the advantage which the latter confessedly have in the matter. Among those mentioned as interested in the scheme are Joseph G. This is doubtless due to Pedro streets, swore to a complaint

He claims he knew nothing of the warrant for his arrest previous to this time, but had engaged himself to work for the electric railway company, the man-ager of which had told him of the same and ordered him to settle the difficulty before entering their further employ as engineer. AT THE CHURCHES.

New Year's Sermons the General Rule Yesterday.

An Eloquent Discourse by Rev. Burt Estes Howard.

Special Musical Programme for the Morning Service.

of the Unity-At the Central and First Methodist Churches-The Week of Prayer.

New Year sermons were the rule at nearly all the churches yesterday, and some very impressive discourses were delivered. Rev. Burt Estes Howard preached a practical New Year sermon last even-ing from Joshua xxiv, 15, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." He described the situation in a nutshell-Joshua presenting to the people three modes of action-to fall into the errors of their fathers; to yield to the influence of surroundings, or to be positive independent and true to their best con victions; such a choice faces every man at some time during life. The new year always brings up this matter of choice—of new resolutions, and the word "don't" prefaces many a badhabit of the past year. But a life made up of negatives is never a success. We want something positive. A man is not counted for what he is not, but for what he is. If one merely throws off his shackles and stops there he will go but a very little way. He must work his life up into something useful, if he is honorable in his desires. Lay no is honorable in his desires. Lay no emphasis on the negative, but push the positive. Get about doing something truly good and manly. The best way to stop serving the devil is to actively serve God. It is not necessary to make any fuss about it; just go quietly to work. It's what you do serve. and not

The Y.M.C.A. orchestra were ent, and their music added much to the service. A male quartette, Messrs. A. W. Hare, Newkirk, Lowe and Mead, sang the offertory, and at the close, rendered the sermon more impressive and suggestive, if possible, by singing "Where Will You Spend Eternity?"
The splendid harmony and quality of their voices were especially noticeable.

The week of prayer will be observed at this church by daily prayer meetings held every evening this week except Saturday. On each afternoon there will be a mothers' meeting, and on Wednesday afternoon a union service of the Prashyterian Woman's Home of the Presbyterian Woman's Home Mission Board. A special prayer meet-ing will be held this morning at 10:30. SIMPSON CHURCH.

what you don't serve that makes charac-

Dr. William McDonald was greeted with a large audience at Simpson Church in the morning. He preached from the text, "Awake, awake, put on thy strength, O Zion." He said the strength of the church was not numbers, nor wealth, nor culture, nor social force, but her strength was supernatural. All these were good if sanctified and used by the Holy Spirit, but a church might have all of them and be ural. very weak for all purposes for which the Lord needed a church on the earth. That Jesus taught the way when he bade them tarry until they were endowed with power from on high. And a church not thus divinely anointed was weak, though possessing all else. He urged the people to seek from God this endowment of strength. The sermon was clear, logical, strong and helpful. At night Dr. Bresee preached from the theme, "Through Death to Richer Life," a sermon of clear thought and chaste eloquence, full of moral power before Justice Owens, charging a man by the name of E. S. Hines with indecent exposure. It seems that Hines growing congregations are any index.

The coming week being the many discretization of the Legard House discretization. The coming week being the week of prayer, services will be held at the church every evening.

CRURCH OF THE UNITY. Rev. Dr. Thomson made an excursion sermon, taking for his subject "The Life of Heaven," and for his text the Revelations. Every one of the 1200 chairs in the great auditorium had its occupant. This sort of speculation about the beyond has a fascination for every thinking man or woman, and, conscious though he is that no one knows any more about it than himself. there is, nevertheless, a morbid desire, as it were, to hear that other man's opinion, especially when the speculator is so eminent a reasoner as Rev. Dr. Thomson. His ideas of heaven, as expressed yesterday, tell us of a divine lace where literature, music, science ligion, the industrial arts, history and in their proper proportion; where sick-ness and disease never come; where suffering, but not pain, may enter; where talents differ as in this world; where the law of interdependence will reign; where amusements will have their place; where love will reign, that love of which mother-love is the best isfaction; it is deep-seated in the soul, and the great God who planted this de-sire is not too poor to satisfy it. This very dissatisfaction is the soul of progress, the life of prayer, for if we were perfectly satisfied we would never pray for we would want nothing, and, there fore would have nothing to ask for The soul, even in immortality, will be developing.

The league will meet this afternoon and a full report, showing receipts and disbursements from its organization to January 1, 1898, will be read. PACIFIC GOSPEL UNION.

The Pacific Gospel Union Mission was the scene of much interest yesterday morning, when by 7:30 o'clock many destitute and deserving people had gathered to partake of the free breakfast which, in Christ's name, is given to the needy of this city every Sabbath morning. It was a good beginning of the day and year, to come to such a place. There were many present who would not have had a hearty breakfast would not have had a hearty breakfast on New Year's day, and some none at all, but for this deserving institution. There was abundance for all. No appetite remained unsatisfied. Bread, meat, vegetables, fruit and hot coffee were served to all, by willing hands who for months past have so willingly ministered to the poor in this way. The guests numbered 250, an increase of twenty over Christmas morning. The eager way they ate, and the many expressions of gratitude, the many expressions of gratitude, showed how much the repast was appreciated. The service, which immediately toflowed, was attended by the majority of the men, women and children who had previously enjoyed the meal, and a most attentive congregation that were tion they were.

Many expressed a desire to start the new year in the right path, twenty-four requests for prayer being made, five of whom, after the services, professed religion.

Contributions to this breakfast, which is a means of grace to many a wanderer from a far and distant home, will be gladly received on Saturdays at 481 and 488 Spring street.

Mrs. J. J. Llewellyn sang "Jerusalem," by Parker. Her hosannas came as bursts of praise, and, on a floodtide of song, her listeners, "forgetting the things that are behind," were launched out on a new year. None who listened to her rich voice could doubt the uplifting power of song. The offertory and hymns were rendered by the choir.

FIRST METHODIST. Rev. Dr. Campbell preached a specially thoughtful and eloquent New Year sermon to an immense congregation yesterday morning. His text was from Joshua iii, 4. At the close of the sermon ten new members were received into the church and one infant was baptized.

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL CHURCH. The concert at the First Congregational Church last night was so great success that a request has been made that it be repeated some week day evening, that all lovers of sacred music may enjoy it, without neglecting the duty to the home church, by absenting hemselves from their places at a regular service.

IN EPISCOPAL CIRCLES. Rt. Rev. William F. Nichols, assistant bishop of California, preached yeserday morning at the Church of the Epiphany in East Los Angeles, administering the rites of confirmation. Miss Adele O'Melveny sang the offertory.

On Wednesday Bishop Nichols, assisted by other members of the clergy, will consecrate Christ Church, the new Episcopal church at Redondo. Trains will leave Grand avenue and Jefferson street at 9 a.m. and on the Santa Fé from foot of First street at 10:15 a.m., reaching Redondo in time for the service at 11:15.

Needed "Medical Treatment." At an early hour yesterday morning there were more drunks on the streets than ever before at that time of day. They, or a majority of them, had been up all night to see the old year out and the new year in, and, from their general appearance when gathered in by the police, the labor must have been hard. They were booked for medical treatment, as the police did not care to be hard on citizens who were about to swear off for a year.

CHANGEABLE EFFECTS.

Special Correspondence of The Times. New York, Dec. 37 .- Don't fret a bit if you cannot afford to get changeable materials, for there is no reason in the world why you cannot accomplish the world why you cannot be the same effect without spending all work money. When you want a new your money. When you want a new gown and you want it "changeable" the first thing is to gather up all your old evening dresses and pieces. HERR BEBEL.

Talk With a Leader of the Ger man Socialists.

land-Combatting Monarchists-The Workingman and the Family-The Revolution Ready.

Special Correspondence of The Times.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—Excepting Liebknecht, Bebel is the principal and most popular leader of German socialism. He has almost succeeded in creating a true political party.

I met him in Berlin in an humble weise bier tavern, his favorite resort in leis-ure hours, just at the moment when the German papers were announcing that he had become insane. The truth was that he had merely paid a visit to Zurich, where a member of his family had Herr Bebel seems about 45 years old, of medium height, with a head expressing at once energy and mildness of dis position. The long hair falls over his high forehead, and is brushed back in great rebellious undulations. A long moustache and short, trimmed beard moustache and short, trimmed beard cover a very large, nervous mouth. His eyes are blue, arched with prominent, energetic eyebrows. His general appearance is frank, serious, almost grave, and slightly melancholy.

1 asked Herr Bebel what the actual situation of the Socialistic party was in Germany.

"Oh, it is steadily growing," he answered with a confident smile. "To what extent one cannot exactly surmise because in the last two years we have had no elections. And we shall have to had no elections. And we shall have to wait another three years to find out what progress our party has made. The elections being a very strong agitation for socialism, the Emperor has wisely taken measures to restrict such occasions. To what end, however—" and he shrugged his shoulders disdainfully. "We have 1,500,000 voters and thirty-six representatives in the Reichstag. And these elections would be of still greater importance for usiff, as in still greater importance for usiff, as in France, they could take place on Sundays, and the right of voting comdays, and the right of voting com-menced at the age of 20 instead of 25, for the German youth shows a tendency to socialism. In every respect we have much right to hope. Agitation by the means of public meetings is flourishing, socialistic literature is increasing, and, even in the laboring districts, where so-cialism never made a propaganda, its influence is felt, which is a very impor-tant thing for us. The representatives tant thing for us. The representatives of the Center consider the provinces of the Rhine, Westphalia and Bavaria as invulnerable fortresses of conservatism.

They will see, however, neart time."

Herr Bebel, calmly sitting on his bench, spoke with tranquility, while a faint smile glided over his face whenever he made an allusion to future vic-

"Do you not think," I asked, "that political emancipation has to be preceded by economical emancipation? Is not a reformation of the German government above all things necessary?"

"If a revolution takes place in Germany, it will be both political and social. A conservative republic like France seems impossible to us. All our parties, except the Socialists, are monarchists, such is the German middle class, in contrast to the French bourgoisle, which caused the revolution. The farmer fears democracy and depends upon the monarchy to preserve certain limited privileges."

"Do you expect the help of the German middle class in effecting a revolution? Do you think they are intelligent enough for such a purpose?"

"We will have to do without them, most likely," replied Bebel, with a broad laugh. Then growing serious, he continued: "But their assistance will be of great value to us, as soon as they recognize that they have plaved their continued: "But their assistance will be of great value to us, as soon as they recognize that they have played their part and are obliged to go with us."

"But would socialism in power not threaten to neglect the original impulses of socialism by its municipal regulations, etc?"

He shook his head. "Well, naturally, we also have to say." You do this and we also have to say: You do this and you do that! Yet socialism is not a dogma; we can always change and per-lect it. On the other side, the conference of Berlin has shown the great weakness and impotence of the Em-peror, despite his good will. The German middle classes are at this hour strong enough to acknowledge it. No; there is no relation between socialism and Cæsarism, whatever Herr von Vollmar may say."

"Then your present inacitivity is

But if the government proposes anything favorable we vote for it with both hands. There are also the so-called 'Young Socialists,' who wish to oppose, simply because they have no idea of what a session of the Reichstag consists of. We also know that a partial change would mean but little."

but little."

"If I have well understood your theories, they are based on the modern philosophy of evolution?"

"Decidedly so."

"Then how do you combine your hopes for a rapid and radical evolution with theories which assert that progress can only take place gradually.?"

"There is no contradiction whatever between the theory of evolution and our hope for a near revolution. On the contrary, we are evolutionists. But we think that the social evolution makes contrary, we are evolutionists. But we think that the social evolution makes such strides that the day is not very far when society can no longer subsist such as it is at present. That's all. While the hen is forming an egg we see nothing, when, suddenly, it is there. We have arrived at the same point—the egg will soon be laid."

"Do you not fear that family feelings will interfere with your ideas?"

"I have shown in my book that the familiengefulle does not form the basis of marriage, but that marriage is simply the result of economical relations. If heritage is abolished, if private property no longer exists, if the education of children is public, what remains of the family? The feelings of man for woman? Well, we will hinder nobody from having a family. But today the girls only look at marriage as a means of gaining comfortable homes for themselves. Why should they bind themselves for their whole existence? What is a family anyhow to a workingman! Twelve hours a day he is out at work; the rest he spends in sleep or at the tavern. Sometimes his wife goes out to work when he returns; even the children work. Yes, what is a family to a workingman!"

Herr Bebel grew a little animated and twisted a pencil between his fingers.

"Do you not believe that when the and twisted a pencil between his fingers.

"Do you not believe that when the Emperor, in spite of Bismarck, took some interest in the workingmen that he showed some genuine understanding and feefing for their socialism?"

Again Herr Bebel smiled. "The Emperor has generally a good opinion of himself and much belief in his own popularity. If it now and then appeared as if he were favoring our schemes a little he simply thought: "Why oppose them?"

We have a general programme—all that is necessary at present. Perhaps a war will suddenly enlighten the people. A will suddenly enlighten the people. A European war might change matters from twilight to dawn. So many different unforeseen, interior and exterior, natural and accidental events must happen to accomplish it. In case of a war the economical disadvantages will be so considerable that the need of a revolution will easily be felt. Navigation will be stopped, commerce stopped, tion will be stopped, commerce stopped, the harvest suddenly trodden down, all Europe ruined, as was Germany in the Thirty Years' War. The revolution is

$100,000

Of the Pasadens & Mt. Wilson Railway Bonds are now ready for issue and will be offered for a short time to home investors. These Bonds are secured by a first mort-gage or deeu of trust, bearing per Cent. per Annum interest. payable semi-annually, on the first days of January and July of each year, and are in denominations of $1000 and $500 each. Both principal and interest payable in United States gold cold.

A special advantage will be given to the purchasers of this issue of bonds only.

Investments can be made for periods of time to suit purchasers of from six months to fifteen years. A Personal Guarantee equal to that of the best banks will go to each purchaser of the first $100,000 of these each purchaser of the first $100,000 of these bonds; consequently all moneys invested as above will be as safe and as sure to be paid at the me agreed upon as if deposited in any savings or commercial bank.

Inasmuch as the greater portion of this road has been constructed without the issue of bonds, the above amount is all that will be necessary to issue until the road is sufficiently completed to go into operation for reight and passenger traffic.

All mountain railroads are paying large dividends, ranging from 15 per cent up to 30 per cent, but the Passadena road has this advantage over all others, that it can be operated during every month in the year, and has a larger and more prosperous local population near its base than any other mountain road.

He Intends to Operate on a Larger Scale Than Ever.

An Unfair Attempt to Discredit the Great Stamboul's Record.

Solly Smith Severely Roasted for His Con duct in His Recent Fight-The Jessie-Miranda Race-Sporting Miscellany.

Dr. C. W. Aby, manager of Fred Geb hard's Guenoc stud in Middletown, Lake county, Cal., was in Chicago last week and was interviewed by the Chicago Herald, which says: Gebhard's two last seasons on the turf were disastrous in a financial way, but instead of being discouraged, the famous sportsman has decided to operate on a larger scale than ever before. A dozen of the best young things on the ranch will be selected for shipment direct to Chicago early in the spring, and the stable will race exclusively here during the Washington Park meeting. Gebhard made six nominations for the $80,000 American Derby, and sent three entries for the $15,000 Queen Isabella stakes. Eligible to the Derby he has Guenoc, by Greenback-Wah-ta-Wah; Leonie, by Greenback—Una; St. Peter, by St. Sav-iour—Glen Queen; Itawanba, by St. Sav-iour—Miss Hooker, and two unna-ed colts by Duke of Montrose, their dams being Pappoose and Elsino. Leonie and Itawamba are also in the Queen Isabella, in company with Golden Lillie, by Greenback—Her Lillyship. Geb-hard is especially sweet on the last-named filly, which, it is said, was highly tried as a yearling and showed such speed that she was named in honor of Mrs. Langtry. These seven horses, now two-year-olds, were all bred at the Guenoc stud, where Greenback and St. Guenoc stud, where Greenback and St. Saviour are at home. Imported Greenback made a reputation in England through Greenlight, Greenjacket, Greenshank, Greenwave, Greenhorn and others of his produce. He is by Dollar, dam Music, by Stockwell, and Gebhard's Chicago nominations are among the first of his get in America. St. Saviour's recent prowess brought Gebhard into prominence on the turf by seconding the great deeds of his amous brother, Eole, whose career was dimmed by the memorable trip to England in Langtry's wake.

During the past season Gebhard's horses earned only $9582, the campaign being memorable only for the purchase for $21,500 of Canvass, which turned out to be a dog. At the close of the season the string was sold at beggarly prices. In 1891 Gebhard's stable won only two races, one each with Warpath and Flavia, but in 1890 old Volunteer alone earned $12,000 for the young New Yorker. Concerning the stable's plans for next year Dr. Aby said: "We will bring ten or twelve horses to the Washington Park meeting, and we expect great things. Leonie and Itawamba are probably the best in the lot of youngsters to be sent here. They have shown very good form, and I expect much of both next season. Which one or more of the half-dozen will start in the Derby I cannot say. It is too early yet to have made definite plans. All of our horses are wintering well, and from present appearances will be certain to come here in the best of condition. The nominations to the Derby and the Queen Isabeila stakes are all that we made in stake events to be run during the Wash ington Park meeting. We will probably make entries to the stakes that close in January.'

STAMBOUL'S RECORD.

The course followed by the American Trotting Registry Association in attempting to establish that Stamboul's record of 2:07% is not an authentic record, is drawing out more adverse comment, says the Chicago Herald. There is no longer any doubt that Secretary Steiner's telegram to Auctioneer Kellogs, stating that in all probability the records made at Stockton during the latter part of October and November would be thrown out because of alleged irregularities, made a great difference in the price Stamboul brought. The National Trotting Association has accepted the record, having been unable to find any irregularities. The American can hardly throw it out in the face of this and the opposition of Cali-fornia's reputable horsemen. While Secretary Steiner's telegram had a depressing effect on the bidders, it has failed to worry Dr. E. H. Harriman, who purchased Stamboul for $41,-600. Though his plans for the champion stallion's career are not yet ma-tured, it is likely that he will be placed in the hands of the expert driver; John E. Goldsmith, who will train him to beat his record next season. Gold-smith's faith in Stamboul is shown by the fact that he bid $40,000 for him. Goldsmith trained him a part of the season two years ago. Every Califor-nia horseman of note believes that Stamboul's limit of speed is by no mean 2:07½, and all unite in saying that Goldsmith is the best man to demon-

If Secretary Steiner's threat to keep Stamboul out of the year book is carried out the records of ninety-eight trotters who made their fastest over the Stockton track during October and November will have to be waived. Electioneer, Guy Wilkes, Nutwood, Palo Alto, Dexter Prince and Anteo are sires that will suffer in addition to Stamboul. THE BICYCLE RACERS.

Certainly two of the best-known American long distance path riders, F. Ed Spooner and Frank Waller, will cross the ocean next year to compete in the most celebrated all-day track event in the world, that known as the Cuca Cocoa cup race, which hereafter will be an annual fixture in London, on the Herne Hill track. What is far more to the point, they have a first-rate chance of earning honors, says the Chicago Tribune.

Waller's chances, it must be con-Waller's chances, it must be confessed, are superior to those of the Chicago man, although on paper, judging each man by his performances in public, Spooner should prove to be the most attractive man of the two. Such barren honor as is implied in the title of long-distance champion of America is Spooner's. He rode 875 miles on the track at Parkside, but showed such signs of physical exhaustion at the close of the journey that it is definitely set. of the journey that it is definitely set-tled in the minds of many who are con-sidered authorities upon the subject that he about reached the limit of his capability at such work on that oc-

Waller, however, is a man of quite a different stamp. In physique he is a giant, muscular, enduring, susceptible to improvement, and endowed with wenderful enthusiasm. He is said to have held to a pace of twenty miles an hour for four hours while training for his second trial. And yet he has a smaller mileage than Spooner of which to boast. His best performance, in fact, his only one worth considering. seeing that misfortune overtook him on

Now, in order to aspire to comparison with the famous long-distance men of England, both Spooner and Waller must prove at least thirty miles better than they have shown themselves, for Shorland, who easily leads the amateurs with his 414 miles, and Stephane, who tops the professionals and the world, has a record of 418 miles. In addition to record of 418 miles. In addition to these men there is James, who, on a safety, proved himself one of the greatest stayers in the universe, he getting over 407 miles in the London competition last season.

The race is billed to come off July 21 and 22. This will give the Americans time to get back again to this country in order to take part in any long-distance events which may be promoted at the World's Fair tournament. The transatlantic trip may have a very bad effect upon the Americans, for they will-be compalled to go into training much be compelled to go into training much earlier than is customary here, whereas their rivals across the water will have the advantage of an early season and home work. However, there may not be any dispute over the statement that Waller and Spooner are the two best men of their class in this country. Van Wagoner, it is whispered, who a few years ago was one of the famous longdistance riders in the country, may join the two who have already determined to give battle to the foreigners.

GUADALOUPE NOT A MAIDEN The directors of the Blood-horse Asso ciation held a meeting on Thursday last and heard testmony regarding Guadaloupe running as a maiden in a race which he wone on Thursday. It was shown that he was a winner, having secured brackets at Los Angeles in the spring. Little Tough, his stable com-panion, was also disqualified under the rules, and first money was awarded to Aerolite, the third horse.

It seems radically wrong that the bets should not go with the purse. If Guadaloupe was disqualified to run, the judges should have considered the mat-ter when Appleby appealed before the figures were run up after the race. who bet on Aerolite would then have won, and of right were entitled to the money their investments called for .-San Francisco Post. __

ROASTING SOLLY SMITH.

The San Francisco papers are unanimous in their denunciation of the foul tactics pursued by Solly Smith in his mill with Johnny Van Heest at the Cal-ifornia Athletic Club last Thursday night; and judging from detailed re-ports of the fight, the Los Angeles boy justly deserves the roasting he received at the hands of the northern scribes for there is every reason for the belief that the result would have been the same had the contest been a fair one and no favor shown to the victor. The and no layer shown to the victor. The Evening Post, in its review of the fight, goes so far as to say "it is time that athletic clubs were closed if such brutal, foul and savage exhibitions are to be allowed," and continues:

to be allowed," and continues:

A few more such exhibitions as that given last night will ring down the curtain on pugilism in this city. The mill was as brutal as a bull fight, and was not conducted according for rule. Fouls innumerable were committed, but not recognized by the referee, who acted like a dummy. An Eastern lad, a stranger among strangers, extended but was not accorded fair play. The reputation of the State for square sport received a blow from which it will not recover for years. Van Heest will return to his people, and by truthfully narrating the indecent treatment he received will call down upon California the indignation of the sporting population of the country. It should not be overlooked that an overwhelming majority of those present last night were friends of Smith, yet if the matter had been put to a vote yet if the matter had been put to a vote Van Heest would have been awarded the battle, and he deserved it if fouls had been recognized and the offender punished as he deserved.

THE RIVAL YACHTS. Commedore Joseph Macdonough, of the Pacific Yacht Club, and owner of the Jessie, which is generally conceded to be the fastest schooner yacht on the Coast, has issued a challenge for a race for $5000 a side to James V. Coleman of San Francisco, who recently pur chased the English-built schoone Miranda, and has announced his intention of bringing her round to this side of the continent.

As the rival schooners are excellent types of the Western and Eastern models, an unusual amount of interest is being manifested by Coast yachtsmen in the proposed race, which should settle the question as to the superiority of the merits and sailing qualities of either. The Jessie is a comparatively new boat. She was built by Capt. Turner at his yards on Carquinez Straits. Her length over all is 86 feet, on water line, 74 feet 6 inches: beam 24 feet; draft, 10.60 feet, and nage, 75.

The Miranda was launched from Harvey's English yards in 1876, and was brought over to America ten years later. She is 92 feet over all; 86 feet inches on water line; beam, 18 feet inches, and has a draft of 13 feet. SPORTING NOTES.

The future of famous Tenny has been settled and he will face the flag no more. He is now at Maj. B. G. Thomas's farm, where he will make the eason of 1893.

The American Kennel Club, of New York, that a few years ago did not have funds enough to pay expenses, has now a balance in its treasury of $4824, after paying expenses amounting to $7332 this year.

J. F. Caldwell will hold the flag at the St. Louis Jockey Club's spring race meeting this year. It is intended to make the meeting a banner one in the city's racing history. It will begin April 29, and continue until June 23. J. C. Ryan of San Francisco, one of the famous sprinters of the country, who is in Chicago, says that the best runner in America today in races of from 100 to 220 yards, is Henry Jew-ett of Chicago, a member of the Detroit Athletic Club. The Dutchess Kennels of New York have sold their well-known dog cham-pion Aristocrat to A. C. Shallenberger of Alma, Neb. He is famous both as a prize-winner and stock-getter, and is expected to do a great deal for Western St. Bernard breeders.

Richard K. Fox has offered a rowing trophy to decide the world's single scull championship, O'Connor's death having left the honor in abeyance. It will be a challenge emblem; the distance must be five miles and the races must be decided in the United States. must be decided in the United States. William C. Reich, proprietor of the New York St. Bernard Kennels, has purchased the famous champion St. Bernard, Sir Bedivere, for $2500. which is a clear loss, to his late owner of $5000. E. B. The secretary of the National Skating Association of Great Britain has received official notification from Holland that arrangements are being-made to hold the race for the amateur championship of the world at Amsterdam January 28 and 24. This will be the first contest under the auspices of the International Skating Union and is expected to be the most representative race ever held on ice. A week later the championship of Europe for speed and figure skaling will take place at tion in English rowing circles since the ratification on December 12 of the match between George Bubear of Ham-mersmith and George Hosmer of Bos-ton. The race, which is fixed to take place on Monday, January 80, is for a stake of $1000 a side and the challenge cup recently resigned by W.

Tom Williams has secured from Senator Stanford the crack two-year-olds Cadmus and Picton, for which W. O. B. McDonough offered $30,000 last week. Both are in the American Berby of next year and are very fine colts. Williams also secured Racine and his pick of the Palo Alto yearlings, from which he will select from seven to ten for a campaign at Washington Park next season.

It is stated that James Stansbury, the Thomas Sullivan, champion of New Zealand, and Peter Kemp will come to America in 1898 if there is to be an international single scull regatta at the World's Fair. "Good Deeds"

Once said a celebrated Cardinal, "ring out clear to heaven like a bell." One of the best deeds is to alleviate human suffering. For many years my father was sick he had blood poison. catarrh, lung and kidney trouble and could not retain anything on his stomach: he was so weak that I e was unable to walk; no doctor could do anything more for him. "says Mr. Duncan McLennan. 492 King street. "We heard of great cures effected at the BERLIN MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 566 South Spring street. Los Angeles: my father sent me to get some medicines there, and it cured him entirely."

Well, such facts as the above need no comment.

Everything in Readiness for Today's Tournament.

gressing on the Mountain Railroad-Personal Notes and Brevities.

The weather yesterday was superb, and everything points to a continuance of the same today, which is all that is needed to make the Tournament of Roses the great est fête day in the local history. The prep arations that have been making for week past are practically completed. Every thing will be conducted on a liberal scale and no pains have been spared to make th affair a great success in all of its numerou details. The fame of the event has spread far and wide, and it will attract hundreds,

if not thousands, of people to town.

Those who are managing the affair authorize the statement that, owing fo a lack of time, it will be impossible to have the procession of decorated teams move as far south on Orange Grove avenue as Prof. Lowe's residence, to be photographed, as was suggested yesterday. The procession will form at the intersection of Orange Grove. avenue and Colorado street, and will move promptly at 10 o'clock. All those having decorated teams are requested to be at the scene of action early in order to be assigned positions. The line of march will be east on Colorado street to Wilson avenue, thence south to the park. The Pasadena band will be at the head, and the scores of decorated turnouts, gaily caparisoned riders, burro trains, etc., will present a novel spectacle, especially to the recent arrivals who have never before spent a New Year's day where the flowers bloom and the sun shines warm, and where the entire community sallies forth, much after the fashion of a big picnic party, all on simple pleasure bent.

The sports at the park will begin at 11 o'clock, and will continue until late in the Lowe's residence, to be photographed, as pleasure bent.

The sports at the park will begin at 11 o'clock, and will continue until late in the afternoon. The programme as published in yesterday's issue will be carried out. Lunch will be served on the grounds, so that the visitors may make a day of it.

IT WILL SOON BE A FAMOUS RESORT. Electric cars will soon be running over the first section of Prof. Lowe's mountain road, from the terminus of the Terminal road, at Altadena to the foot of the cable in-cline in Rubio Cañon. The track is com-pleted the entire distance, and the cars are now on the way from the East. It will re-quire a short time only to put the overhead wires in place, and then the road will be in running order. Work is meanwhile pro-pressibly randdy out the jucline. The steel running order. Work is meanwhile pro-gressing rapidly on the incline. The steel construction cable is in place, and is being utilized to good advantage in the matter of laying the track preparatory to placing in position the mammoth double cable which will pull the cars up and down the steep oon as the electric cars arrive they As soon as the electric cars arrive they will be run at frequent intervals up into the canon, which will be fitted up as a picnic ground. This ride is a feature of the mountain trip, the scenery being of a most picturesque description, and the canon picturesque description, and the canon forming a most delightful retreat on warm days and evenings. Prof. Lowe will build a pavilion, where band concerts will be given, and make such other improvement as will add to the pleasure and convenience of the traveling public.

It will not be out of place to state in this connection that a number of conservative capitalists of town, who have been holding capitalists of town, who have been holding back so far, have, within the past few days, been purchasing the road's bonds at a lively rate. A prominent bank official told the reporter Saturday that bonds to the amount of $17,000 had been purchased that day by a few of his personal friends.

The entertainment consisted of the following programme: "Shadow Pantomimes," "The Witch's Dance," "Blue Beard" and "Her Hash's Horrible Re-Beard and "Her Hash's Horrible Revenge." "Burning the Faggots"—the chief feature of the entertainment—was participated in by all present. Each guest was presented with a faggot, to which was attached a quantity of flash-light powder. The Raymond turnout in the Tournament of Roses today will be a dandy.

A little four-page weekly, devoted to the interest of the Raymond and its guests, made its first appearance this morning. Swerdfinger & Jackson of Pasadena had charge of it typographically, and they did fine work on it. It is neatly gotten up, printed in chocolate ink on heavy paper, and promises to be quite a popular teature of the hotel.

The Pomona College Glee Club aroused much enthusiasm on Saturday evening, when its members presented themselves for the first time before a Raymond audience. The boys sang well, being encored for several members, extended an interesting musical programme, and gave a really enjoyable concert. At the close of the entertainment an informal hop took place. The principle feature of the dancing was the Swedish, which was very successfulled invitations and were present were Mrs. Dobbins, the Misses Dobbins, Mrs. Dreer, Mr. and Mrs. Clason.

Among the arrivals of Saturday was Mr. Edward Baln and family of Kenosha, Wis, where Mr. Bain has extensive carriage manufacturing works. Mr. Bain traveled hither in a pitvate car.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sheward of Los Angeles drove over yesterday with a spanking team, and enjoyed the Raymond's elegant New Year's dinner.

The presence of the Pomona College Glee Club added considerably to the enjoyment of the usual Sunday evening service of song at the Raymond.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY.

The Masonic Installation of Officers Will An ancient Indian burying ground has ately been discovered on the Dreyfus ranch, near the line of the old pueblo lands, close to the city limits on the west. About four thousand acres have been planted to fruit in Santa Barbara county during the past year. The entire frui between figs, olives, nuts and the ordinary deciduous and citrus fruits, with a con-siderable acreage devoted to tropical J. C. Hassinger has sold out his book and stationery business to H. Muzzall, who begins doing business at the old stand today.

Both the Press and the Independent is sued special editions yesterday, containing

Mr. Gould of Montecito, who is giving or Montectto, who is giving considerable attention to olive-culture, has a fine new olive mill, equipped with the best and latest improved machinery for extracting and refining the oil.

Business at the wharf was lively on Sat-

Business at the wharf was lively on Saturday night, the last night of the old year. Between 9 o'clock and midnight three steamers were loading and discharging freight and passengers. First the steamer Corona arrived from the south on her way to San Francisco, taking on twenty passengers and a quantity of freight from here. Before she was ready to sail the Santa Cruz came in from the north with potatoes, apples and miscellaneous freight. About the time the Corona was ready to sail the Eureka arrived from San Francisco with six passengers and thirty-five tons of freight for Santa Barbara. The three vessels were all here at the same time, and the chorus of their steam whistles made a lively serenade for both the old and the new years.

les made a lively serenade for both the old and the new years.

The recurrence of a second dry season in Santa Barbara this past year has had one beneficent effect in forcing residents outside of the limits of the water service to develop a copious water supply. This is notably the case in the pretty suburb of Oak Park, where the citizens have hitherto depended upon shallow walls ted by a sur-Oak Park, where the citizens have hitherto depended upon shallow wells ted by a surface flow, furnishing sufficient water for household purposes, but wholly inadequate for irrigation. Last summer a number of these wells were despened and new ones sunk, with the result that the district is now in the possession of abundant water, and another summer will no doubt see flourishing flower gardens, where there have hitherto been but a handful of parched plants and sickly shrubs.

With the 1st of January the new system of letting the construction and care of State roads by contract goes into practice. No section of California is more vitally interested in this matter than Santa Barbara county, and the political future of the supervisors, in whose hands the responsibility of letting these contracts is placed, will depend upon the wisdom and fidelity with which they guard the interests of the people.

The city of Santa Barbara is especially depended upon shallow wells ted by a su which they guard the interests of the people.

The city of Santa Barbara is especially concerned in this subject. Widely advertised as a pleasure resort, she has no greater attraction to offer to visitors than the beautiful drives leading in every direction, to the picturesque canons, the fruitful valleys, and to her mesas, with their charming homes and broad visitas; but when travel over these roads is a succession of jolits and jars, and the traveler is spattered with mud in winter and smothered in dust in summer, landscape and climate are robbed of much of their charm. The trouble with Santa Barbara roads is not in the amount of money expended upon them, but in the manner of its expenditure. A properly graded roadway, well drained and covered with rotten rock or gravel, will cost double the amount of the common style of road, but it will save its cost every five years in the decreased expense of maintenance. The drives of Montecito are the single exception to the prevailing poor travel, and this is the only direction in which the tourist can set out upon a long drive with any assurance of comfort.

Assaulted and Stabbed by a Maxic Robbery the Motive for the Deed-No Clew to the Would-be Murderer.

What seems to have been a cowardly at-tempt at murder was made about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night on the person of Father Reidhaar, the Catholic priest of this city, who presides over the district of Santa Ana and San Juan Capistrano. According to the priest's story a Mexican came to his house, which is located near the Catholic Church, in the eastern portion of this city, about 10:30 o'clock and rapped at the door. When the door was opened the Mexican asked for something to eat, but the priest told himit was too late to get anything to eat, as the man who was staying with him had gone up town. The Mexican then asked for 25 cents, and the priest readily handed him the amount and was about to tell him where to go to get something to eat, when to his great surprise the Mexican made a lunge at him with a murderous-looking knife, at the same time saying: "D—n you, I want your money." The priest made an effort to guard off the blow, and was successful to the extent that the villain's knife went wide of its mark, striking its victim in the left leg, just above the knee, and inflicting a wound reaching to the bone. Realizing that he was being murderously assaulted, the old gentleman sprang inside the room and quickly closed the door in the face of the villain who had attacked him.

The Mexican did not make an attempt to vas about to tell him where to go to get

The Mexican did not make an attempt to get in the house, and has not since been seen. The officers were not notified until yesterday of the assault, and the Mexican has therefore had ample opportunities to has therefore had ample opportunities to make his secape.

Father Riedhaar has only been in Santa Ana a short time, jand is but little known. His story is a very strange one, and the officers are at a loss to know what prompted the assault. The priest has an ugly cut on his leg, which is evidence of the truthfulness of his story.

Further investigation late last evening proves that the knife wound is not so serious as at first thought.

The programme consisted of instrumental and vocal selections, all of which were exceptionally well rendered. As evidence of the acceptable rendition of the different selections it needs but to be known that every selection brought forth a hearty en-core. At the conclusion of the musical portion of the programme seats in the body of the hall were cleared away and fifty or more couple, together with the fifty or more couple, together with the Berkeley boys, tripped the light fantastic toe until the advent of the new year. The entertainment was for a most worthy pur-pose, the benefit of the free public library of Santa Ana, and as a result the library fund will be somewhat increased, as it wa

JUST WHAT THEY WANT.
An Eastern gentleman, who arrived in An Eastern gentleman, who arrived in this city just a few days ago, called at the TIMES branch office yesterday and ordered eighteen copies of the Columbian number of The TIMES sent back to friends at his former place of residence. "Thabis just what the people want back there just now," said the gentleman, as he planked down the money for the papers. "I saw in Saturday's paper that these copies could be procured yet, and as there is so much in that issue about California, especially Southern California, that I thought it would be just the thing for me to send a number of them back to my friends, who, by the way, are quite anxious to learn all they can about this country."

RIALTO.

Rialto is to rival Los Angeles in one thing, at least, and that is for the first-prize for a write-up offered by the United States Investor, published at New York and States Investor, published at New York and Boston, of any town or city in the country. In this are six cities of California, and Rialto, Riverside, Redlands and Los Angeles are in the contest from Southern California. As all the write-ups are to be published in the columns of that magazine they will prove very interesting reading.

The rainfall of last Saturday amounted to 1.76 finches, making a total for the season of 3.55 inches. This rain has given the growers of barley encouragement that this is to be an extra good year for that cereal, and they are putting in a large quantity.

the growers of barley encouragement that this is to be an extra good year for that cereal, and they are putting in a large quantity.

Another good kindergarten object lesson for those from the Hast occurred Christmas day, when a lady here picked a nice dish of ripe red raspberries that had ripened out of doors. The strawberry beds are full of blossoms and green fruit, and will soon furnish the ripe fruit for the market.

Rialto Lodge, F. and, A. M. will soon be added to the fist of Masonic lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Master of California.

J. C. Salisbury of Los Angeles was on a Christmas visit here, accompanied by his wife and child, and was so favorably impressed with Rialto that he contemplates coming here to invest and reside.

The Methodist Episcopal Church partakes of the growing activity in real estate circles, and is having a decided boom. This was the result of a two weeks' course of meetings held by Rev. Chafe, up to Christmas, which have been renewed since the close of the attending festivities and will be continued for some time to come.

Rev. J. H. Jenkins has resigned the pastorate of the Congregational Church at San Bernardino and accepted a call to take charge of the combined parishes of Rialto and the one in Bloomington precinct. He is very popular here, and his coming will be hailed with great pieasure. The change will take place about the 1st of April.

Daniel Schwartz of Celton has bought lot 379, of the Rialto tract, ten acres, and a building lot in Bloomington.

The youthful activity in fruit-growing here was well illustrated on the ranch of Moore Bros., who have twenty-five full-grown lemons on a tree a year old. This is matched by A. S. Fox, who has a navel orange cree only a year old that holds thirty-two fine ripe naval oranges of large size.

ONTARIO.

The rainfall in the town for December was 1.89 inches. At Twenty-fourth street. six miles nearer the mountains, the total was 1.89 inches. At Twenty-fourth street, six miles nearer the mountains, the total was 3.67 inches.

The Chaffey footballists naturally felt a little sore over the big score which Stanford ran up against them, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that the Palo Alto boys had to work for their victory. In the East it would be regarded as presumption for a preparatory school to play even a small college. Chaffey only has about a hundred students all told, and less than half of these are boys. There are really only about afteen or sixteen boys in the school who are old enough and heavy enough to play football, and that from this material an eleven could be organized that would make the Stanfords put up the stiffest kind of a game to prevent being scored against is something to be proud of.

The fact that fully a third of the big crowd at Riverside, Wednesday came from Ontario, Cucamonga and Pomona, certainly suggests that closed grounds for athletic sports would be a good investment here.

It is reported that if the Cudahy Company does not secure a franchise in Los Angeles, the packing-house may come to Chino. W.

and most highly respected of the pioneer residents of this city, is in a critical condition at his home on Seventeenth street, as the result of a visit to a clumsy chiropodist. Some three weeks ago Mr. Vickery called upon one of these gentry, who, for a nominal sum, proceeded to remove a corn from one of the old gentleman's toes. The following morning Mr. Vickery experienced some difficulty in walking, but paid little attention to the matter. The injured toe, however, began to swell abnormally, and next day Mr. Vickery suffered such excruciating pain that Dr. Kuster was called in. Ur fortunately for the patient, the physician apparently knew very little more as to the proper treatment of the injury than he by whom it was caused, and the result was that blood-poisoning ensued. After three weeks of suffering other advice was sought, and yesterday afternoon Drs. Brill, Haynes and Smith as a last resort, amplitated the toe. The patient was resting easily last night, but his condition is such as to cause his relatives extreme anxiety. one of the old gentleman's tives extreme anxiety.

Tucson, Dec. 81.-Charles Meadows, an old-time cowboy who has been traveling with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show some time, has been in Silver City endeavoring to organize a posse for the purpose of capturing Kid and his band. He is now in Phœnix making arrangements with Gov. Murphy concerning rewards, and will there com-plete the organization of his band. Meadows is seemingly quite confident that he can capture or kill the renegade and thus secure the reward, and also a name which will give him prestige in the Wild West show at Chicago next year. Home of Refuge for Chinese Wome in Los Angeles.

The Good Work Which Has Been Ina gurated and Carried on in This City-The Aims and Objects

The fact that there is a home of efuge, rescue and instruction for Chinese women and girls in this city is not so generally known and appreciated as it should be. Mention was made of it in the press, however, in connection with the recent trial of a poor hunted Chinese girl, who had been sold and resold in this land of human liberty and freedom, and who dared to escape from her unspeakably debasing and cruel life, and from her demon master.

This home is under the care af a society of women, organized for the purpose of carrying on this work, and it had its inception in a union missionary meeting, held in the First Methodist Church in January last. At that meetng ten sor more denominations were represented, and a committee of two from each denomination was appointed, to meet at some future date to consider and plan for permanent organization and the general furtherance of the work. In February this committee was called together in Mrs. Herriott's parlor, where questions of importance were fully discussed, when they adjourned to meet in March in the First Congregational Church, at which time a permanent organization was affected, and the society went to work with a will, and hopes to remain at work till the last vestige of slavery is wiped from this fair State, if not from the whole land.

Their meetings are held in the First Congregational Church at 9:30 a.m. the first Wednesday in each month. One of the first steps taken was to secure printed matter. Circular letters were printed, designed to be sent to all evangelical churches in Southern California. They also secured a number of leaflets, etc., notably "A True Story" and "A Stain on the Flag," copies of which may be obtained by applying to Mrs. McFadden, No. 727 South Hill street, the contents of which will give light to those so desiring.

The reasons for establishing a home in this city are as follows:

First, the distance to the San Francisco homes is so great that it is with the utmost difficulty that refugees can be conveyed there with any degree of

be conveyed there with any degree of safety.

Second, the above given reason practically debars the slaves in this part of the State from attempting to secure their freedom because of their well-grounded fears to encounter the dangers incident to the trip.

Third, a home in this city may not only meet the needs of this place, but can also supply the wants, in this line, of every place in Southern California which has within its precincts a China-

There are also other reasons, of greater or less force, for maintaining a home in Los Angeles, but those enumer-ated are sufficient to brush away all doubts concerning it.

Let it be thoroughly understood that this home is in no way antagonistic or in opposition to any other institution of the kind; on the contrary, the society governing it greatly desire to work in harmony and Christian friendliness with all others, heartily wishing them God speed. However, it would be impossi-ble for this home to become auxiliary to those in other places for the reason this is instituted and conducted by a union of all evangelical denominations Requisites and necessities of the so the present superintendent.

Second—The society needs an accumulation of friends who will become either active or honorary members— not for any benefit which may accrue to the present membership, but for humanity's sake, for righteousness sake, for Christ's sake, for the sake of woman, and for the innumerable bene-fits which must thereby accrue to this Provision was also made for the admission of the ministry of the city to a seat in all of the regular meetings, enjoying all the privileges of the same except the right to vote. Also, any gentleman may become an honorary member on the payment of $2 annual meetings of the society, so far as practicable.) is greatly desired by those engaged in this work; also, that the business and professional men of the city might pay their $2 and become honorary members; and that men and wo-men who have a good bank account might make a generous donation to the cause, for it is the cause, the cause of liberty and humanity, to which con-tributions are made, and not to those who are devoting time and strength (to say nothing of money) to the work

But money is not the only help that is seeded. Furniture of all kinds for the home, except bedding and tableware, is needed; also fuel; groceries and provis-ions of all kinds; in fact, just such necessaries as all of us need to make our lives and homes comfortable. Please do not forget this, neither delay it. Any articles may be taken to the home. No. 1027 Temple street, or they may be left with Mrs. McFadden, No. 737 South Hill street.

The members of the society feel sthat they can serve the city in no better way than by thus offering an opportunity to the public to assist in giving freedom and happiness to their sex, looking forward and paving the way to the utter extinction of the most diabolical system of slavery that demonstrates bolical system of slavery that demons incarnate—or in spirit—could invent.

To this end, in order to facilitate the ork, and also to take as little of the valuable time of business men as possi-ble, it is proposed to appoint a committee to wait upon the citizens of Los Angeles and receive their annual dues, or such other contributions as they may lesire to make. This committee will be equipped with credentials, thus warranting their gennineness, and it is hoped that no fraud may be perpetrated upon the public, as was the case on a recent oc-

FOR INVENTIONS

PROCURED BY THE Press Claims Company.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the govornment is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their pat ents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, the PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY has retained counsel expert in patent practice, and is therefore prefared to fore prepared to Spouting is One Thing, Acting Another!

No store on this Coast is better and more favorably known than is our estab ishment. Fair dealing and upright trading has made it so. This matter of advertising one thing and doing another is detrimental to any house. Complaints come in daily to those behind our counters of the absurd ty of proprietors advertising ideas that are never upheld. Such doings make the advertiser appear insincere and sometimes quite queer. Spouting is one thing and acting another. With us in our daily affairs there it no friction. We give you far better values than elsewhere; we give you better money's worth than others; we give you larger stocks to select from than any one. All this goes far toward retaining our patrons and adding new Tomorrow we close at hoon. Every prominent store probably will do likewise. This half day will be a big one with us. We think with the aid of our incomparable list we'll do a full day's trade before noon. We'll see; at any rate we'll close at noon:

Colored Dress Goods Dept.

We have decided to sacrifice the balance of our FALL DRESS GOODS during the month of January. We do not propose carrying over a dollar's worth of goods. At the prices they are going to be marked they will seil. The first line which we place on sale are our

38-in, All-wool Novelty Suitings

$2.50 a Suit.

Black Dress Goods Dept.

This department will also have some very attractive goods to offer during the month. The first line which we will place on sale is our Imported Henriettas

$4.25 a Suit.

Silk Department.

Silks are not moving as fast as we would like them to, so we are going to use the knife and see whether we can't stir them up. To that end we will take our elegant quality of

24-in, Black Faille Silk

$1.00 a Yard. Domestic Department.

While it is an acknowledged fact that this is the largest department in the State and that goods are sold closer than any other house, still we have decided to do better yet during this month, and the prices we are going to sell goods at will be the talk of the town. The first thing we will offer is 81c a Yard.

Linen Department. This department has no equal. Every one is astonished at the closeness which goods are sold here and at the beautiful line we carry, and we feel proud of it, but we are going to do more for you this month than ever. We start in by offering

60-in. Unbleached Table Damask of a superior quality, which, when sold, can never be duplicated anywhere near the price we are going to sell it at, which is.

50ca Yard.

Hosiery department.

This department will not be forgotten this month, and it's going to offer you some very tempting values. We have about 100 dozen

Ladies' Fast Black Hose

which we guarantee not to crock or stain the feet. We purpose to sell this line at 12½c a Pair.

Ladies' Underwear dept.

This department stands second to none in this city, only being made so by the sterling values we have been offering. This has been our policy and we purpose keeping it up. During this month we will make ex-tra efforts, which will long be temembered. We start in with Extra Fine Heavy Egyptian Ribbed Vests, made with tapered neck and full sizes. Such a value has never been seen before. We are going to sell them for......45c Shawl department.

During this month we will revolutionize the shawl business. We are determined to do a big business in this department and price is not going to stand in our way. The goods we intend selling are all fresh, being this season's purchase. For instance we will begin with

Black Chuddah Shawls full size, fringed ends, splendid weight, we will offer at $2.00 each Cloak Department.

We are astonished at the amount of business we have done in our Cloak Department. Not a customer has ever left it without remarking how pretty our cloaks were, and how reasonable we were selling them. We are going still further, we are going to

Beaver Fur-trimmed Jackets,

Shoe department.

We have been doing a rushing business in this department, and propose keeping it up. We carry nothing but the best makes of foot wear and stand behind every pair of shoes we sell. In order to increase the sales in this department, we will take our entire line of

P. Cox's $5.00 Ladies' Shoes,

HOUSEHOLD DEPARTMENT—This department is gaining headway daily. People appreciate the fact that they can purchase goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Still, we are not satisfied, we want to do more business, and if price is any factor, we will do it. The first thing we will do, is to sell 56-piece Tea Sets, made of the best English goods. They come in 8 colors. Decorations will look very handsome on anyone's table. We propose to sell these sets at $2.95 each.
